Synopsis

St. Louis, 1809. Three years after the triumphal return of the Lewis and Clark Expedition, Meriwether Lewis never felt less like a hero. Trapped in a thankless political job, he's drinking too much and spending money like there's no tomorrow. When he's called to a mysterious meeting, Lewis hopes for a new adventure that will turn his life around. Instead, he finds himself drawn into a conspiracy to put him and William Clark at the head of a new American empire.

Lewis has his faults, but he's no traitor ... and suddenly Lewis the explorer becomes the hunted. As for Clark, he's willing to risk everything to save his best friend from dishonor and disgrace. In the end, neither man can imagine the price they will pay for their loyalty to each other and to their country.

What Reviewers are Saying

"First-time novelist Hunter spins an imaginative tale of what might have happened during the last month of Lewis's life that is authentic in detail and shows both the flaws and the virtues of these legends of American history. ...Highly recommended."

- Library Journal

"The story of bravery, of honor betrayed and honor redeemed, and the undeniable truth that great men possess great flaws as well as great strengths ... truly astonishing."

- Roundup Magazine, Western Writers of America

"Emotionally riveting."

- We Proceeded On, Lewis & Clark Trail Heritage Foundation

"This work will leave you saying 'Eureka!' with satisfaction at the final page."

- Stephenie Ambrose Tubbs, co-author of The Lewis & Clark Companion

"Full of gritty historical detail and raw imagery that rings true across the years. To The Ends of The Earth is historical fiction at its best, pulling the reader in and re-engaging the mind and imagination in the drama that occurred 200 years ago."

- Midwest Book Review

"For readers who love adventure, interesting settings, a little romance, blood and gore, and characters who live life largely ... a page-turner until the end."

- Historical Novels Review Online

They went to the ends of the earth.

About the Author

Frances Hunter is the pen name for the writing collaboration of two sisters, Liz and Mary Clare. They chose the name "Frances Hunter" to incorporate their two middle names into one.

For To the Ends of the Earth, Liz and Mary conducted extensive historical research and traveled the entire route of the journey described in the book, as well as the Lewis and Clark Trail from Montana to the Pacific Coast.

The authors live in Austin, Texas. To the Ends of the Earth is their first novel. Learn more at www.frances-hunter.com.
